Koalas ⁵ drink much water because they get as ⁶ liquid as they need from eucalyptus (gum) leaves. ⁷ there were millions of Koalas in Australia, but ⁸ of them were killed for their meat or fur. ⁹ forests that they lived in were destroyed, ¹⁰ the Koalas were hunted so much that they ¹¹ became extinct. Many also died from disease. These ¹², Koalas are protected. People are not allowed to ¹³ them or keep them as pets. I visited a ¹⁴ where Koalas are cared for. Some of the ¹⁵ from sanctuaries are released into the wild or ¹⁶ to zoos. When a Koala is born, it ¹⁷ about the size of a bee. It crawls ¹⁸ into its mother's pouch and stays there, drinking ¹⁹ milk, for about twenty-eight weeks. Once it ²⁰ big enough to leave the pouch, the baby ²¹ rides on its mother's back, clinging to her ²². And then it snuggles up close for yet ²³ sleep!
